WANAMAKER'S

RESUMED: A PROCESSION OF FORMER YEARS

The repetition of history goes on here. The present generation is learning what the last generation understood so well, namely: That the block occupied by this Store is not only central to New York City but grandly central to the Hudson river and all New England.

Thus, Miss New Haven, Mrs. Springfield, Mr. Poughkeepsie, and all the great eastern and northern central branches of the National family are finding their way here in ever increasing numbers.

The special attraction of the month is the

AUGUST TRADE SALE OF FURNITURE

It brings together $500,000 worth of the best Furniture at prices that will soon be a half higher.

Parlor Suits supplied the first special topic of the August Trade sale of Furniture. The response in sales was large—surprising. The incoming reserves quickly filled the vacated spaces, and now the variety surpasses the original collection. To-day there is a variety of

WASHINGTON NEWS NOTES, |

Washington, August 15. WHAT A BALTIMORE MAN SAID. "Baltimore is fast going ahead of New-York as the chief grainexporting port of the United States," said A. C. Doly to a reporter at the Riggs. "Last week over fifteen hundred thousand bushels were loaded at Baltimore for shipment abroad, and high-water mark has not yet been reached. On Wednesday last there were twenty-one steamers leading there, and many more have been chartered. The great rallroad lines centring there have been taxed to their utmost capacity to haul the grain from the West to the scaboard. The big elevators belonging to the Pennsylvania road are temporarily idle on acthe Pennsylvania road are temporarily idle on account of repairs, and hundreds of cars are on the sidings waiting to be unloaded. Undaubtedly this heavy movement will continue through August and September. Whether this supremacy as a grain centre is because Baltimore pursues a more liberal policy, or arises from superior facilities. I do not know, but the facts are as I have stated, and t looks as shough New-York would have to bestir tself if it does not want to lose its prestige as the hief commercial scaport of the country."

WELCOME MONGOLIANS -"The Ohio Fish and WELCOME MONGOLIANS.—The Onto Pish and Game Commission is going to turn loose 2,500 Mon-golian pheasants in various sections of the State this fall," said R. W. Lyons, of that State, at the Raleigh. "The Mongolian pheasant is one of the most beautiful birds in existence and weighs about two and one-half pounds. Eventually, the Commission will secure a great many more, until nearly every county has been supplied. The present slock will be turned loose in the forests and allowed to run at large. They are hardy birds and able to withstand a rigorous winter climate. In order that they may increase fast, it is made a violation of the law to kill or capture any phensant before 1999, and after that only in the months of November and December. A reward of $25 is offered by the Commission to any person giving information leading to the arrest and conviction of any violator of the law." two and one-half pounds. Eventually, the Commi

Diederich, who was recently appointed Consul to Magdeburg, Germany, has returned from a short visit to his home in Indiana, preparatory to his defor his post of duty next Wednesday, Professor Diederich is well known in Washington. During the LIVth Congress he was clerk of the House Committee on Immigration. During the lican headquarters in Chicago and New-York, and had charge of a branch at the German Literary Bureau, where he readered excellent service to his party, serving without salary. His candidacy for a German Consulate was backed by a large portion of the German press throughout the country. Mr. Diederich is a native American, but has for years occupied an eminent station as a German educator. For sixteen years he was a teacher in Concordia College, Fort Wayne, Ind. He is a brilliant political writer and a good campaigner, and his services to the Republican party in 1849 were rewarded by his appointment as Consul to Leipsic, where he was rated one of the best officers in the Consular Service. His recent appointment is gratifying to a host of friends, a direct recognition of the German Republicans by the Administration, and one that will reflect credit upon the Consular Service.

VIEWS OF A CANADIAN.-Canadians naturally the Attorney-General on the applicability of the provision of the Dingley law which imposes a discriminating duty of 10 per cent ad valoren on good net of Canadian origin, which are imported or brought into the United States from the Dominion. Among the strangers now in Washington is Edward Farrer, of Toronto, who said: "Great Britain has denounced the preferential treaties with Germany and Bedgium and they will terminate next year. When they are terminated Canada will be in a better position to make a treaty with the United States than ever before. The Liberals, who are now in power at Ottawa, will make every effort consistent with honor and with the political connections with Great Britain to bring about such a policy. But it is said by citizens of the United States that the Canadian Pacific violates the Interstate Commerce act and ought to be struck at, anyhow. I have no particular call to defend the Canadian Pacific. The Liberal party in Canada had to fight many a long day against that road, and in those days it believed, and, I dare say, helped to circulate the story, that Sir William Van Horne did not observe the Interstate act, but systematically cut his rates in the United States and recouped himself by levying exorbitant local rates in Canadian Pacific observed in the total call rates in Canadia But when they took office, a year ago, the Liberals looked into this charge carefully and found it to be absolutely without foundation. Instead of violating the Interstate act, the Canadian Pacific observed it, perhaps, more faithfully than most American roads. It is to its interest to do so, for, of course, it does not wish to run foul of the Interstate Commerce Commission and jeopardize its American roads. It is to its interest to do so, for, of course, it does not wish to run foul of the Interstate Commerce Commission and jeopardize its American roads. It is to its interest to do so, for, of course, it does not wish to run foul of the Interstate Commerce Commission and jeopardize its American business. Nor is it true, as alleged in some papers, that it has received subsidies from the Canadian Treasury exceeding $200,000,000. At 3:20 o'clock this afternoon the body was taken from the Fourteenth-st. residence, where it had lain in state, and conveyed to Lee's crenatory, on Pennsylvania-ave., followed by a long line of carriages containing personal friends and prominent members of the Binvatsky Branch of the Theosophical Society, of which Mr. Soh was a member. The brief and simple funeral services were conducted by George M. Coffin, president of the society.

The coffin was drapped with a slik American flag, and on it also had been placed the robes of state worn by Mr. Soh during his official career here. At each end of the coffin were crosses of white and pink roses, which had been sent by Prince Min and Mr. Pak. Among those admitted to the chapel were Prince Min, Prince Eni Wha, the second son of the present King of Corea, in full court uniforms; Mr. Pak, Mr. Surh, a number of Corean students and a number of the members of the Theosophical Society.

THAT DISCRIMINATING DUTY.

MR. NIMMO'S ARGUMENT BEFORE THE ATTORNEY-GENERAL.

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE TRIBUNE.]

Washington, Aug. 13.-The Hon. Joseph Nimmo, ment before the Attorney-General in support of the contention that the 10 per cent discriminating duty is applicable to Asiatic goods coming into the United States through Canada. He opened with a brief historical sketch of the inception and growth of the United States and Canadian transit trade, which, he showed, had its origin in administrative discretion. In 1848 an invoice of goods destined for Canada arrived at New-York. The question arose, Could such goods be transported to Canada through the United States without payment of duty? The Collector reasoned that as the bonded warehouse laws permitted imported goods to be taken from the warehouse and transat the wharf, which would take them to a foreign country, without payment of duty in the United States, so such goods might, under proper regula-tions, be delivered to a canaibout or ratioad car to be transported to Canada free of duty.

The Secretary of the Treasury concurred in thi view, and the practice soon spring up, not only or passing foreign goods through the United Stateat New-York, Boston and Portland, Me., to Can-ada without payment of duty, but also of allowing goods to be shipped from Canada through ports e the United States without payment of duty. Re-ciprocally, Canada allowed the people of the United States to import and export goods through Canada by the St. Lawrence route without the payment of duty. This Mr. Nimmo denominated the foreign transit trade. He then described the lomestic transit trade as follows: About April 1, 1855, the completion of the Susper

About April 1, 1855, the completion of the Suspension Bridge at Niagara Fails opened up the first all-rafl line between New-York and Chicago. The question as to anowing goods to pass through Canada from Suspension Bridge, N. Y., to Detroit without payment of duty was also determined as one of administrative discretion. It was not until the foreign transit trade and the domestic transit trade the subject of statutory enactment, insofar as the United States was concerned, it left the whole matter of establishing and regulating routes to the Secretary of the Treasury.

The next matter of legal significance on the subject is Article XXIX of the Treaty of Washington, concluded May 8, 181. In this canada according to the United States the reciprocal privilege of importing goods through Canadan ports, but Mr. Nimmo stated, this is a privilege which the United States can accept or reject at will. At this point he explained with considerable emphasis that the entire transit trade, domestic and foreign, is simply the incident of the freezing up of the St. Lawrence River for six months in the year and the interjections of territory of the two countries on the east side of the continent, where there is no lee to impede navigation and no interjecting territory.

Mr. Nimmo then gave a brief historical review to prove the assertion made by him that the Canadian Government is both a great railroad and canal corporation and a political corporation. The Canadian Government completed its system of Erie Canal, Canada has also constructed a Gov Intercolonial Railroad-and has likewise con eaches from Port Arthur on the Pacific to Montreal, and to various points along our northern and northeastern boundary line. The contribu-tions of the Canadian Government to the Canadian Pacific company in stock subscriptions, subsidies. exemptions and guarantees of credit amount to ment road, designed to promote the commercia American commerce from American ships, American seaports and American transportation lines Here he alluded to the fact that the Province of British Columbia, with a population of only about 20,000, is drawing away the commerce of a population in our Pacific Coast States of over 2,000,000, adding, "And this is being accomplished through the financial and political power of the Dominio aggressions upon American commercial interests on Government imposes a discriminating duty of goods provided in Section 22 of the Tariff act of July 24 is to offset this and other aggressions upogoods provided in Section 22 of the Tariff act of July 24 is to offset this and other aggressions upon American commerce.

Air. Nimmo went into an exposition of the terms of the statute, pointing to the fact that the main proposition preceding the exempting clause consists of two parts, one referring to "goods, wares or merchanise which shall be imported in vessels not of the l'inited States," and the second to "goods, wares or merchandise the production or manufacture of any foreign country which shall come into the United States from such continuous country."

The clause of exemption contains the exact words of the first clause of the declaratory portion of the section, but does not allude to the second clause which imposes the 10 per cent duty on foreign good-entered through Canada. Mr. Nimmo then showed that the terms "imported" and "come into" are not synonymous under the usage of the Government for the last fifty years, and that under our navigation laws foreign versels are not entitled to the same privileges as railroad cars in the transit trade, all going to prove, as he contended, that the exempting clause does not apply to the transit trade, if the decomptine decomplined the retail border trade which, as an officer of the Government, he had investigated throughout its entire extent.

He was a crusty old bachelor of forty-five. She was his niece, a little tot of eight. They had been having lots of fun together in the library all the afternoon, and as dinner time drew near she became tired and sleepy. Finally he took her upon his lap. She talked to him drowsily.

"You haven't got any little girl but me, have you, Uncle Harry?" she asked.

"No." he replied, "and if I did have one I couldn't love her any more than I do you?

"Why don't you have a little girl?" the sleepy child continued. "Why don't you get married, like Cousin Tom. Uncle Harry? Don't you want to?

"Oh, there's lots of time," he replied. "There's lots of time, dearest; and, besides, there are just as many good fish in the sea as have ever heen caught."

The letter says:

they are bachelors. The letter says:

Bachelors have always been failures as chief magistrates and legislators in this and every other country. Both your candidates are bachelors, and bachelor politicians are narrow-minded, sellish, egotistical and cowardly. David B. Hill, of New-York, who posed as the bachelor Presidential candidate, is a typical filmstration of this class of men. He is morally selfish.

Therefore, it is about time to organize anti-bachelor clubs in this State. It should be the purpose of every young woman to look up the record of each and every man who is looking for votes, and should his moral character be such that would infill him for office then his shortcomings should be the point of attack by the anti-bachelor women of Massachuseits. There are forty-seven thousand girls between the ages of twenty and twenty-nine years in this State who cannot find husbands, as there is that number less men.

Governor Leedy sat in his office recently with one foat resting on the window-sill, enloying the cool breeze, when a young friend came in and offered him a ticker to the bleycle races at the fair grounds. "Can you ride a bleycle," asked a reporter who had been questioning him about matters of state with indifferent resuits.

"I never triel a bleycle," was the reply, "but chout twenty-five years ago I used to ride one of the velocipedes that were in use in those days. They had from thes, and we did not ride them on the street. There were blg rooms, like skating-tin's, where we used to pay so much and ride around in a circle. I was pretty expert in those days, but now I carry most too much surplus flesh. I don't bet issailly but I said, Yes, the first trial. That probably saved me $5, for he thought I was an expert and backed out. If I not said in three trials he would have probably taken me up."

"I don't believe much in bleveles, anyway," the fovernor added. In the first place, were I a roung man and wanted to go to see my girl, do you suppose I would want to go out riding on a blevele and be compelled to ride along, working and taking at being compelled to side along, working and taking at being compelled to side along, working and taking at being compelled to side along, working and taking at leng rampelled to side along, working and taking at long none direction and good riding on a blevele and be compelled to work like. Woolng and wedding in Alaska among the natives, are interesting and peculiar rites. When a young man is of a suitable age to marry, his mother, his aunt or his sister looks up a wife for him. He seldom marries a woman younger than himself; she is much older, and sometimes is double his age, and even more. She is selected from a family whose position equals his or is even higher. When a suitable woman is found the young man is asked how many blankers and animal skins he is willing to pay for her. When that important question is settled, a feast is arranged in the home of the order and the friends of both families are invited. When the company is assembled the woman's people extol the greatness of their family. The young man's marringe gifts are spread out where they will make a fine show, and then his family sound their praises. The ceremony lasts from one to two days, and finally the young bridegroom takes his wife to his own abode.—(Philadelphia Record.)

From The Seattle Post-Intelligence.

From The Seattle Post-Intelligence.

Seattle has its device for thawing the frozen ground of the Clondyke placers, which claims at least equal merit with the hot-air device described in a dispatch from Tacoma a few days ago. It was invented by C. A. Barron and is manufactured by Barron Bros. & 'o., and consists of a number of coils of steam pipe radiating and discharging into a central column, the whole being inclosed in sheet iron and resembling a stove body. This device can be set up in one's cabin, a fire built on cobile-stones beneath it and steam made both to thaw the ground, warm the cabin and bake breat. The steam is drawn from the central column through a rubber tube, to which an iron pipe is attached. A hole is drilled in the frozen ground, the pipe run down it and tamped in and steam turned on. The steam thaws the ground upward to the surface, and about half as far outward from the pipe, so that a hole will be thawer of a diameter equal to its depth. If desired, an oven can be fitted to the machine to bake the intimer's brad.

Another device for the same purpose has been in-
